

Communities Joined in Action (CJA) will convene an annual national meeting of member communities throughout the US, in various stages of systems development, to share and exchange approach and results. We help communities organize for action and keep coalitions energized and moving forward. Throughout the year, CJA will provide the expertise to help you convene multiple organizations within your state to come together to assess state-specific access issues and identify solutions based on the experiences of over 1000 communities. We have our own web page to make it easy for members to connect, learn, and share best practices.

This learning community approach to peer technical assistance is an exciting way to experience and share the skills, tools, methods and results of all communities. By organizing to generate greater political will at the local level, we can in turn leverage this influence within states and the nation to sustain larger scale change than we can accomplish separately.
